Occult awareness

Gulf Oaks speaker discusses Coastwide problem

BY TRACI BONNEY

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Rita Blaize-Watson didn't appear in uniform at Gulf Oaks Hospital in Biloxi Thursday evening, and with good reason.

The guest speaker in a seminar on occult awareness, she said she wanted to speak on an aspect of the problem she didn't feel she should cover while in uniform: the spiritual aspect.

Blaize-Watson, who has been researching the occult and occult crime for eight years and has been giving lectures and seminars four years, issued a disclaimer at the program's start. She told those attending she didn't intend to "beat anyone over the head with my Bible or my personal beliefs"; however, she pointed out that there is more to the occult than just the law enforcement aspect.

Calling the seminar "Occult 101," the deputy proceeded with a number of definitions of words she had printed on poster board and held up one by one.

She said there are two types of cult, normative and deviant. Normative cults are those that teach good is good and evil is bad; deviant cults believe pain and evil are good. Deviant cults include Satanic ones, she explained.

The word "occult," which she said is often confused with "cult," means anything that is mysterious, mystic or hidden.

Watson: Occult activity slow, steady in county

BY TRACI BONNEY

Rita Blaize-Watson, a deputy with the county Sheriff's Department and an occult investigator for eight years, said the activities in Hancock County are "no different from anywhere else in the country; it's a slow, steady thing."

"There's enough of it out there for us to be aware of it, enough that each law enforcement department ought to have a person trained in investigating occult activity, but not that the departments need to go out and hire more people."

ACTIVITY—Page 10A

Bayou Caddy Casino seeking gaming license

BY TRACI BONNEY

Bayou Caddy Casino is back on target toward obtaining its gaming license.

Former State Gaming Commission director Royal Walker said some months ago that the company had asked that its gaming license application be put on hold. Now, however, company president George Baxter says most of the permits are in hand and the company plans to start the process of obtaining the license next month.

"It may be several months before the license is actually issued," he added.

In the meantime, Bayou Caddy Casino is beginning preparation work on its two-acre site and pier, and is finalizing negotiations for the purchase of the Southern Elegance, which Baxter said will be moved to Port Bienville Industrial Park for renovation.

"We have to make a number of changes, take out things that were necessary for a seagoing vessel but not for a dockside ship. We also have to make the boat handicapped-accessible, add ramps and elevators.

"The engines will remain, even though they'll be broken down, as ballast. We may have a lounge in that area, call it The Engine Room Lounge or something like that."

Baxter said the vessel will have about 25,000 to 30,000 square feet of gaming area when the renovation work is finished, and the casino will have a nautical theme. Plans call for 600 slot machines and 20 game tables, including mini-baccarat, blackjack, craps, poker and roulette.

Planned site improvements include a 220-foot-long, 50-foot-wide pier built over the jetty at the end of Beach Boulevard. The jetty will be relocated, and the channel will be dredged to accommodate the vessel.

Bayou Caddy Casino first announced its plans about 14 months ago to put a casino at Bayou Cadet. Baxter said the process of getting a gaming license has been a long one, mainly due to the "bureaucratic timetable" to which he claimed the company has subject.

Q. I have just been granted a service-connected disability rating. How long am I eligible to apply for VA life insurance?

A. Effective September 1, 1991, Congress increased the eligibility period for applying for Service-Disabled Veterans Insurance, known as "RH" insurance, from one year to two years. The extension applies only to those veterans who were rated service-connected on or after Sept. 1, 1991.

Q. I am deaf, but my phone is connected to a TDD. Is the VA linked to this type of system?

A. Yes. You may call 1-800-829-4883, VA's TDD connection. VA offers nationwide, toll-free service for answering your benefit or other VA-related questions, regardless of where you live or where your VA file is located.

Q. Is it necessary for me to inform the VA of my new address if my monthly benefit check is handled by direct deposit?

A. Yes. Failure to keep VA notified of your current address could result in missing important notices related to your claim.

Q. I participated in the Chapter 32 education program during my first enlistment and have since reentered the service. Since the new Montgomery GI Bill, Chapter 30, offers better benefits, may I switch my entitlement to it?

A. No. Participants in Chapter 32 (Veteran's Educational Assistance—VEAP) may not participate in the Montgomery GI Bill, Chapter 30. However, all those on active duty on September 30, 1990, who are discharged as a result of an involuntary reduction in force (RIF) after February 2, 1991, may elect Chapter 30. Their military pay must be reduced by $1,200, and they must receive an honorable discharge. A high school diploma or its equivalent is required before benefits can be authorized.

Q. My husband was killed in Vietnam. I remarried after his death, but was divorced in December 1991. Can benefits from my first husband be restored?

A. No. A surviving spouse is not eligible for restoration of benefits unless her remarriage was terminated prior to November 1, 1990.

Q. Can I use my VA home loan guaranty to purchase a motor home?

A. No. Motor homes are not included in VA's program: manufactured homes with or without a lot are.

Legion Post Unit 139 installs officers Friday

A joint installation of both American Legion Post and Unit 139 officers is planned Friday, July 31. Happy hour is set for 6:30 p.m. prior to the installation ceremony.

Both the Legion's new commander, Joseph Bermond, and the Auxiliary's new president, Susan Piazza, will be installed along with all the other elected 1993 officers.

The festivity will be in the American Legion Home located at Green Meadow Road.

Bay St. Louis Post 139 was formed in 1923 just four years after the American Legion was formed at a caucus of the first American Expeditionary Force, March 15-17, 1919 in Paris, France. Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. called to order the subsequent caucus in the United States, May 8-10, 1919 in St. Louis, Mo.

Council

Scalda wrote a resolution for the Council which will ask the board of supervisors to consider including the area between the Bay St. Louis car and railroad bridges in the county's beach renourishment project.

PLANNING AGENCY

Councilman Charles Scianina reported on a recent meeting he attended concerning the formation of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Planning and Development Agency (MGCPDA).

Scianina said the new organization, which will come into existence October 1, 1994, if it is formed and is approved by the federal Economic Development Administration, will represent the three Coast counties and possibly Pearl River, Stone and George counties as well.

Until MGCPDA begins operation, the Gulf Regional Planning Council and the South Mississippi Planning and Development District staffs will cooperate under the supervision of an interim director, Scianina added.

When the new agency comes into being, GRPC will dissolve and SMPDD will continue to work with nine or 12 of the 15 counties it currently represents, depending on whether or not Pearl River, Stone and George counties join the new agency.

The mayor said the only thing needed from the Council at the next regular meeting is a resolution approving the creation of the new agency.

Food Pantry donation

Hancock County Food Pantry president Aileen Sauzer looks on as pantry treasurer Wilma McMahon accepts a $2,000 check from Waveland Wal-Mart manager Jack Latif. Latif explained the $2,000 is matching monies contributed by the Wal-Mart Corporation in response to an employee food drive in which $2,000 in food items and monies were donated to the pantry. McMahon stated, "This is the largest amount of money we have ever received from a private business or corporation. On behalf of the food pantry, we thank Wal-Mart and especially the employees of Wal-Mart who made all of this possible." (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

ACCIDENT

Two Poplarville men were injured last week on Hwy. 603 when they were hit by a 1983 Cadillac, according to Highway Patrol spokesman Sgt. Dan Tackett.

Tackett said Gaynell Roberts of Bay St. Louis was heading south on Hwy. 603 around 10:47 p.m. when she hit the men, who were reportedly fighting in the middle of the highway. The incident occurred two miles north of Dummeyline Road.

The two men were Tony Harel, 35, and Rodney J. Smith, 25. Debby Harel, Tony Harel's sister, told the Highway Patrol officer on the scene that the men were fighting at the time of the accident, Tackett said.

A Hancock Medical Center spokesperson said Harel was treated and released from the emergency room, while Smith was admitted. He had been in the Intensive Care Unit, but is now recovering outside the unit, the spokesperson added.

concern that the county would lose EDA funds, but Haas said as long as the county is a member of an EDA-approved organization, the funds are safe. He reminded the supervisors that if the EDA doesn't approve MGCPDA, the county can withdraw from the agency.

After some discussion, the supervisors voted unanimously to support the new agency's formation.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE FOUND

The board voted 5-0 to rent the first floor of a building on Hwy. 90 in Waveland for use by Hancock school district Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois and her staff.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's July Morning Edition will be held Friday, 7:30 a.m. at the Mississippi Power Company's Conference Room.

This month's sponsor is Mississippi Power with the guest speaker being Al Kokesh, general manager of Casino Magic Corporation at Bay Cove.

This sounds like it will be an interesting program, as Kokesh will be presenting and update on the plans for Casino Magic at Bay Cove.

He will probably release the opening date for Bay Cove's Casino Magic and what their future plans for further development of the complex.

Many of us are saddened by the death this week of Ben F. Hille, who probably knew more about the inner workings of an automobile than anyone else in Hancock County.

Ben had been involved in the auto business all of his life and was the owner of Ben Hille Motors in Bay St. Louis.

Whenever many of the local mechanics had a problem on a vehicle, mechanical or electrical, and they could not solve it, as a last resort, they would contact Hille for advice.

Those who served in the military, especially the Army, will tell you that whatever a recruit's occupation was in civilian life, chances were very slim they would be doing that type of a job for Uncle Sam.

Ben Hille was an exception to that rule.

When I took my military physical in 1954, Ben was with my group and he was the first of us to get his invitation to report for active duty.

I volunteered for the Army a few weeks later as my number was nearing the top of the draft list too. When I finished basic training, I was sent to Camp Gordon, Georgia, for communications training.

You can guess it, Ben was assigned to a Motor Pool at Camp Gordon and was doing mechanical work, something he did prior to being drafted.

His death will also mean the closing of a chapter in Hancock County's auto repair business history, one started by his late father in the mid-1930's.

Ben will be remembered by many Hancock Countians as a master mechanic and also as a friend.

To his wife, six daughters, grandchildren and brothers, Ben will be remembered for many years to come as a person who helped keep transportation working for thousands of Hancock Countians. He will be missed by many.

NASA technology flawed in SSME, solid rockets

Safety Advisory Panel to review the SSME by early 1993.

When the House Science and Technology committee performed its congressional probe of the Challenger disaster, the committee expressed its concerns for inadequate safety margins, as indicated by persistent operating problems of the SSME such as cracked turbine blades, defective hydraulic actuators and temperature sensors.

The most contentious single issue is the development of advanced high-pressure turbo pumps for the SSME. These pumps deliver liquid hydrogen fuel and oxygen to the engine's combustion chambers. The current pumps are used between two and eight times before refurbishment. However, Congress ordered NASA to stop work on the fuel pumps.

Another SSME improvement program cancelled was the development of an improved engine nozzle. Other improvements needed for the SSME are hot gas ducts and heat exchangers. According to the National Research Council, these engines have been plagued with problems.

Also according to the National Research Council, the redesigned Solid Rocket Motor, manufacturing technology needs improvement rather than continue with the unproven ASRM.

Unwanted babies are criminals of tomorrow

To the Editor:

Letter writer Beverly Albe says that choice should be exercised before conception, which is partly true—partly.

It's obvious that she, like so many pro-lifers, have actually had very little or no actual experience with the facts of life, including so many naive, uneducated teens who have very little understanding of their bodies or of the real forces of nature in which they are easily misled or seduced and usually end with a sudden crisis pregnancy and a shifty-eyed "macho" father who's had his fun and gone!

Yet, this simple but common situation is but one of many hundreds of different "awkward" situations that can result in the same crisis.

There's rape, molestation, abuse, incest, and beatings by drunken males on drugs or alcohol—all who seize control of some helpless female. Are these girls to blame because their "choice" is not to bring into the world a child who will only suffer the pains and miseries of the damned? Who will grow up to become rapist or murderer? Studies have shown that abused and neglected children are the rapists and criminals of tomorrow!

Writer Albe speaks of adopting unwanted babies. Will she please tell me how she or others like her will be able to adopt the 6.5 million suffering, starving, homeless children born into hopelessness in the U.S. each year? We can't find any institution capable or with sufficient funds to take these hopeless children. Can anyone imagine 6.5 million adoptions of children suffering from poverty and starvation who have no hope and who will die in misery before they reach their teens, if not commit suicide which happens regularly? There is no need to go to Peru to adopt a child, as Albe says. It's just that no reasonable person would think of adopting these miserable children who shouldn't have been born in the first place!

While we're "saving" the unwanted babies, we should think of the many healthy babies with families and loving nurturing homes. These are the planned babies, who in the future will suddenly find themselves suffering from the exploding population which will soon destroy all of us and our children as there becomes less and less space on the earth and less oxygen in the air to breathe?

Fewer trees and greenery exist to make the oxygen we need as we build more and more homes for a crowded population with fewer jobs and more pollution of the environment than ever? More and more poisoned waters?

And the cost—who's going to pay for the hordes of millions and billions of an ever-growing population?

I believe a recent "Dear Abby" column expressed it perfectly. The writer asks, "Since God alone can create life, and since God alone knows what

Liberals must represent people, not special interests

To the Editor:

Mr. Fulcher, in his July 23 Letter to the Editor asks why Republicans keep calling folks "liberal." He goes on to give his Webster's Dictionary definition of the word. He assumes that to be "liberal" is great, no matter the circumstances.

Here is why Republicans believe "liberal" is a deadly political trait:

Generous: Some folks in office are very generous, not with their resources, but with the taxpayer's money. More and more people are getting aid in some social program.

Abundant: Liberals think that tax money from Americans is so abundant as to have no limit.

Tolerant: Liberals are tolerant. They cater to so many conflicting views that they support anything and everything. They support homosexuals, pro-abortionists, feminists, union leaders, environmentalists and other special interest groups.

Broad minded: Liberals overlook irresponsible check-kiting in the House and say no harm was done; no taxpayer money was involved. Who pays the salaries and perks while they make a career in Congress?

Belonging to the people: Liberals don't now or have forgotten that the people elected them and that the Constitution states they should represent the people, not special interest groups.

Sincerely,
Juanita P. Brumside

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Hot didle ding dong dandy, if you want to find the fish, look for the dedicated fishermen. They are easy to find, especially at night; just look for the lights on the piers. By taking my own advice, and looking for the fishermen on the piers, I got into some real interesting discussions this past week.

Let's start with the Ulman Avenue Pier. The Ulman pier is located at the end of Ulman Avenue at the junction of Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis. It is a "free to the public pier," in that no admission charge is assessed. That means free, Jack.

The Ulman pier is about 9 trillion miles long (translation—about one-half mile) and is reasonably well-lighted. By reasonably well-lighted, I mean there are still quite a few dark areas on the walkway as you travel to the end of the pier. The lights all tend to be angled toward the water. Lighting the water definitely helps make this a good fishin' spot, as the light helps to draw minnows and other goodies that the fish like to dine on.

There is a large platform area at the end of the pier to accommodate a fair size group of fishermen at one time. The platform area is very well lighted for people use. It also has lighting that is directed toward the water to help attract fish. My interviews on the Ulman pier started about 9:30 p.m. There were 20 to 30 people on the pier around this time, so you can see that the pier gets a good deal of night usage.

The first group that I came across was composed of Whinton Landrum (age 13), Tad (17), Mandy (10) Breland and Derrick Turner (14). They said they were having a really great time catching "horned trout" with an occasional white trout showing up. Barrick, said that he hooked a big drum and fought him until he broke his line. The drum came to the surface several times before finally breaking Barrick's 20-pound test line. He was using dead shrimp on the bottom as his bait.

The next group was Sandra and Marvin Ladner of BaySide Park. They stated they were known as the "flounder killers" of the Ulman Avenue Pier. Their method is to walk slowly up and down the pier sorta' dragging their bait just off the bottom. They claim to do very well using this method normally, but the flat fish were not cooperating this night.

A little further along was a family of four generations: the Strong—Beth (age 6), Ashley, Mama, Grandma, and Great-grandma Delphine. All were having a great time.

And then, and then, I came to the platform. Holy jumping donkey chains. There were rods and reels everywhere. The fishermen on the platform were apparently big time serious about catching fish. They had some really incredible tales of the fish that they were catching, but they did not have any fish to show me, so I guess they must have eaten them all before I arrived on the scene.

Ray Johnson claimed he first started fishing about two weeks ago and now, just one and one-half weeks later, he caught a red fish that was bigger than him. He is six feet four. He claims that about 40 people saw him catch the fish, but he had to throw it back because he felt a fish that big would be too tough to eat. Right.

Now Ray's girlfriend, Penelope, said she always catches more fish than Ray, and she questions Ray's veracity about that big red. Besides, she claims Ray cries when she catches more specks than him and he has been crying a lot lately.

The last person on the platform gave his name as Joe with Bliflick (age 103). He caught nine, sail top catfish this night an average weight of between 5 and 9 pounds. Joe claimed his secret bait was cut croaker.

Since the answers I was getting to my questions were getting stranger by the minute, I felt it best if I went on to the Ladner Pier down in Waveland.

The Ladner Pier is a beautiful example of a family fishin' fun place. The pier is well lighted, exceptionally clean, and has the security of a 24-hour ranger.

Before I go on to talk about the fishin' on the Ladner Pier, I must comment on the conversation I had with the ranger before I interviewed the fishermen.

The ranger told me there are quite a few elderly, not so elderly, and other people who come to the pier every evening to just walk for exercise and to watch the sunset over the water.

There is an added bonus when the shrimp boats are close in as this is when the porpoises play in the water in front of the pier. Just one look around tells me, if you have not had the experience of seeing the sunset off the Ladner Pier you don't know what real beauty you are missing.

Back to the fishin'. Jerremie (13) and his dad caught about 40 trout in one afternoon using live shrimp. They are here on vacation and think the Coast is just great.

Tom Sawyer just moved to Diamondhead with his seven children. He had them all out on the Ladner Pier this night. They ranged in age from 19 to 11 and were composed of five girls and two boys. The Sawyer family had just started fishin' and they had already caught several "honored trout" and a bag of mixed fish. They were planning to make an evening of their fishin' as they had a quantity of soft drinks as well as a watermelon on hand.

Mr. Sawyer just could not say enough as to how "neat" it was to have a place to entertain his whole family for only $12 a year. He has made very good use of the Ladner Pier to spend some quality time with this family.

The last person interviewed on the pier was Mike Canelino.

Mike is one of the diehard shark fishermen who frequent the Ladner Pier. He claims the shark fishing has been hit and miss this past week, with only a few black tips being caught. He did say the Spanish speaking fish are hitting on cut bait in the early morning hours. Most of the Spanish mackerel are rolling, and jumping out of the water, just out of casting range. Mike was sure if the pier extension (that was promised) was completed, the mackerel would be in easy casting range.

This week's wonderful wise words: There is beauty on the water just waiting to be enjoyed.

Fishin' is family fun, turtle.

Drummed in

Josh Dover, 14, of North Carolina, shows off the 38-inch, 38-pound drum he caught while fishing in the bay with Randy Dover (left) of Bay St. Louis; Scott Wood, 15, of North Carolina, and Josh's father Jerry Dover of North Carolina. Josh, Scott and Jerry were visiting Randy on vacation when Josh caught the drum on a 20-pound test line after a 10-minute fight from on board a 16-foot tri-hull belonging to Randy. Wildlife Extravaganza Aug. 7-9

The Mississippi Wildlife Federation will sponsor the sixth annual Wildlife Extravaganza consumer show from Aug. 7-9 at the Mississippi Trade Mark, Jackson.

The show will feature the latest in hunting and fishing equipment, cameras, camping gear, trucks, ATVs, outdoor wear, conservation and environmental exhibits, seminars and demonstrations.

Competitions include largest speckled trout, redfish, croaker, white trout, flounder, ground mullet and largest fish.

"The rodeo's officials will not be responsible for undersize fish," Sam Pernicario Jr., club president warned.

"No undersize fish will be accepted, and parents are urged to have their children comply with state and federal regulations (on speckled trout and redfish)," Pernicario added.

Karl emphasized no catfish or stingrays will be accepted. "This is for the safety of the children participating," Karl said.

There will be a special crab division for ages six and under.

All fish must be caught by the participants on the day of the rodeo in any waters in the area from piers, shore line, boats or wading.

Sportsman's Club members will handle the scales, and the weighmaster's decisions are final.

Each participant will also receive a free hot dog and coke, Pernicario said.

Trophies will be given for first, second, and third place in each category.

Scales will close at 5 p.m.

While the winners are announced in each category, drawings will be held for a large number of special prizes.

Many of the prizes for the rodeo have been donated to the Sportsman's Club by local merchants.

Occult

you know you should stay away from all of it."

When she came to the word "sabbat," Blaize-Watson held up the placard and quipped, "No this isn't supposed to be 'Sabbath.' I didn't run out of room."

She then explained that "sabbat" is a witches' gathering. She said there are about 133 Satanic holidays in a year, and eight high days. She affirmed that Halloween is considered one of those days.

She added, however, that not all Satanists are witches and not all witches are Satanists.

TYPES OF SATANISM

Moving on to Satanism itself, the deputy said there are three general types: the traditional, religious and self-styled. Although there are some of the first two types on the Coast, she said the self-styled ones are the most prevalent locally.

A self-styled Satanist, she explained, is anyone who takes the do-it-yourself approach; for instance, the teenager who gets a few books on Satanism, some candles and knives, and sets up an altar in his room or somewhere else private.

She explained what happens in such a case is that "while that teen didn't break any laws that we as police officers can do anything about, he did break some spiritual laws and open himself up to things in that way."

She said any such method people dabble in or practice, such as Ouija boards or the New Age practice of "channeling a spirit guide," breaks those laws and opens doors in the spiritual realm.

Proceeding with the definitions, she explained that a coven usually denotes 13 witches, while a group can be of any number.

She mentioned the Bible, and said, "Most Satanists are well-versed in our Bible and use it to blaspheme God and turn against us."

The Bible isn't the only Christian item Satanists will use, she added. A Black Mass, she said, involves the use of a consecrated host (symbolic of Christ's body sacrificed on the cross) from a Catholic church.

"They will use it in sexual rituals or other things. They'll do really gross things with it, because they believe they are blaspheming against God when they do."

Coming to the words "witch," "wicca" and "wicce," she quipped that "a witch is a witch is a witch."

The deputy then explained that "witch" has the traditional meaning, while "wicca" and "wicce" denote (respectively) the female and male practitioners of the pagan religion Wicca. She said there are a few such practitioners in the area.

However, these pagans don't worship Satan. In fact, she claimed, they don't even believe he exists.

"From a Christian viewpoint, though, they are still breaking the spiritual laws of God. They're directly causing problems for themselves more than anyone else, but they are increasing the evil in the world by opening it up to these dark spiritual forces."

SATANIC RITUALS

Touching briefly on rituals performed by Satanists, she said there are three basic types: the sexual, the compassionate and the destructive.

Most people understand the first and third ones, she said, mixture of Catholicism and African worship traditions: voodoo mixes French Catholic and African, while Santeria mixes Spanish Catholic with African.

She said one good thing about those who practice Santeria is they don't recruit, but tend to keep it in their families.

Going back to Satanism, she explained why it catches the attention of law officers:

"Satanists start to do things that break the Ten Commandments, and the Ten Commandments are what the laws of our land, the civil and criminal laws, are based on. That's where we come in as law enforcement officers."

One thing Satanists won't do, she said, is warn their victims beforehand.

The deputy asked how many people had heard the "blond-haired/blue-eyed child sacrifice at Halloween" rumor.

but "I get this all the time: How can those people be compassionate?"

"What it means in this case is: for example, one of the members wants good fortune or prosperity, so the members do a ritual or say an incantation to bring it about, to benefit themselves.

"What they're doing is making a demand, whereas when we pray, we're making a request, then we're supposed to wait in faith for God's answer. Sometimes the answer is 'no.' But we are supposed to ask and wait."

ORIGIN

She said there are several theories of the origins of Satanism, including rebellion by peasant servants against their wealthy Catholic landowners in the Church's early days; the individual's belief that such a big God wouldn't deal with him, so he needed a lesser god to get what he wanted done; and a heresy which developed in the 1500s called dualism, which claims that God and Satan are good and evil brothers. Satanists who adhere to this theory believe that at the end of the world, God and the Antichrist will battle and Satan will win.

Blaize-Watson explained that just as Satanists will abuse the Bible for their purposes, so will they reverse or pervert other Christian traditions. For example, she said, many sacrifices occur at 3 a.m. because biblical tradition holds that Jesus died at 3 p.m. on Good Friday.

In addition to speaking of witchcraft and Satanism, the deputy briefly mentioned voodoo and Santeria. She explained that both cults have a

"That sweeps the country every year," she commented. "A true Satanist is not going to put a note in somebody's locker. If you're going to be their victim, chances are you'll be the last one to know."

SOLUTIONS

She emphasized that the occult is not a problem that can be solved with higher police pay, more people or more federal funds. She said it is a family problem, and parents have to tackle it in their own homes.

Many children investigate the occult, she said, because of the lure of power or the feeling of belonging to something greater than themselves. If the parents' lines of communications are open with the child or youth, chances are everyone will get through it all right, she stated.

SIGNS OF INVOLVEMENT

Some of the signs of occult involvement — moodiness, being withdrawn; sudden changes in sleeping and eating habits, grades, friends and clothing, to name a few indicators — are also very often signs of a normal phase of being a teenager, Blaize-Watson said. She cautioned parents not to immediately assume their children are into the occult if they see those things, but urged them to keep alert and to communicate with their children.

The deputy added that most of the youth she has dealt with as an occult investigator were abused or neglected in the home, and were looking for someone to love them without hurting them.

An audience member asked her opinion on the influence of heavy metal music.

She said that while the lyrics either subtly or blatantly endorse the occult and the Satanic in many cases, the person who is influenced by that music generally had some mental, emotional or spiritual problem to start with, because the music tends to influence what is already in the person.

"We talk so much about the subliminal thing — we have to start worrying about the liminal," she said, tapping the side of her head.

When asked if she knew what specific Satanic or occult groups are operating on the Coast, the deputy said, "If I had the names — but people who come out of these groups aren't very willing to tell me much. The groups will blackmail a person and harass him, or threaten family members. No one wants to go to court against these people."

She said those who do get out usually spend their lives looking over their backs. "It's so much easier to stay out of these groups than to get out of them."

However, she said the big groups aren't the main problem; most parents should be concerned with the small groups of friends who persuade a child or teen to try the occult are more dangerous.

"Just because they're kids by themselves doesn't mean they can't be dangerous. They commit suicide, they can kill relatives, they abuse children and small animals."

She said most young people who get into Satanism or the occult have above average IQs, feel like outcasts from society, and are seeking some sort of spirituality. Most dabblers, she stated, are from their pre-teens to their early 20s, while most serious practitioners range from young adults to older people.

"The most powerful thing we have to fight this isn't police and force; the most powerful thing is living as a community and prayer. Prayer is the most powerful weapon you have," the deputy said.

Activity

She was the speaker at a seminar on occult awareness at Gulf Oaks Hospital in Biloxi last week. Although early information about a recent murder in Harrison County indicated that occult activity may have been involved, Blaize-Watson said she thinks the Hospital asked her to speak because of her "P.R. man," a friend who works with law enforcement in Harrison County and has contact with the hospital.

A Gulf Oaks Hospital spokesperson confirmed that the hospital's education committee already had planned to have a seminar on occult awareness before the murder occurred.

"The Wound Care/Hyperbaric Medicine Unit at Gulf Coast Medical Center is more than just a long name for a hospital department. It means results."

Dr. Paul G. Matherne, Medical Director, The Wound Care/Hyperbaric Medicine Unit, Gulf Coast Medical Center

Gulf Coast Medical Center continues its commitment of comprehensive medical care with our expansion of Wound Care/Hyperbaric Medicine.

In a hyperbaric chamber, we're able to create an atmosphere of pure oxygen and increased atmospheric pressure in order to hasten the body's natural healing process.

Hyperbaric treatments are often recommended for:

- Chronic wounds that won't heal
- Recurring infections
- Bone infections
- External limb ulcers
- Brown recluse spider bites
- Carbon monoxide poisoning (smoke inhalation)

GCMC was the first hospital to introduce this specialized healthcare on the Coast, and we're expanding our capabilities with a comprehensive wound management center, providing treatment and recovery services in coordination with your physician's orders. We think that's important. And so does Dr. Matherne.

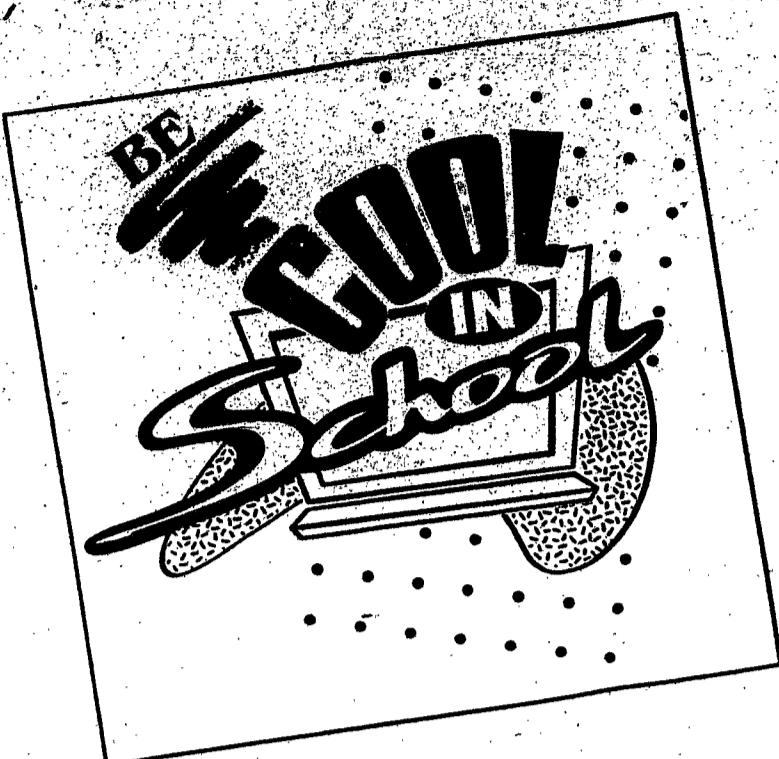

For additional information call our Wound Care/Hyperbaric Medicine Unit at 388-0288.

Dr. Lorraine de Montluzin named honorary board member

At a meeting of the de Montluzin Foreign Language Scholarship Fund, members voted to name Dr. Lorraine de Montluzin as an honorary member. Dr. de Montluzin has continued to maintain her interest in the fund in many ways since its beginning and members were unanimous in their decision.

Dr. de Montluzin is a daughter of Mrs. Emily de Montluzin and the late Mr. René de Montluzin.

She is a 1966 graduate of Bay High and received a bachelor of arts from Newcomb College of Tulane University in 1970. She received a master of arts in 1971 and PhD in 1974 from Duke University.

Dr. de Montluzin has been a member of the faculty at Francis Marion University in Florence, S.C. since 1974, currently holding rank of professor of his-

of the Francis Marion University chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Her publications include a reference book: The Anti-Jacobins, 1793-1800: The Early Contributors to the "Anti-Jacobin Review" (published in London, 1988, by the Macmillan Press) and various articles on British press history published in British and American scholarly journals.

Her duties at Francis Marion University have included (in addition to routine teaching, research and committee service) teaching courses for the Honors Program and advising students, especially freshmen, in planning their academic programs.

The scholarship fund is approved by the Internal Revenue Service as a non-profit organization and all contributions are tax exempt. All donations, small or large, are appreciated, and can be mailed to P.O. Box 217, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520 or can be made at any Hancock Bank.

The fund is now administered by a board of seven members and three honorary members and is now awarding $1,000 language scholarships each year to a Hancock County student.

ASRM program funding in jeopardy

BY TRACI BONNEY

The future of the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) program hangs in the balance as Congress debates whether or not to fund it.

Most of the program's funding was cut earlier this week in a vote from Congress that surprised many, but the Senate Appropriations Committee approved a proposal from Sen. Thad Cochran to provide monies for the operations and construction of the ASRM plant in Iuka. Cochran said the committee approved $50 million to keep the project underway until we can resolve this issue with the House. We think we're going to achieve success."

The House of Representatives passed an amendment 249-159, Wednesday, to cancel the program, with Rep. Gene Taylor casting one of the votes against the amendment. The amendment was offered by Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, in whose district the solid rocket motors now in use are made.

A Senate appropriations subcommittee backed the House's vote Thursday, but the full committee reversed that decision later in the day.

Lon Miller, director of the ASRM program at Stennis, had been on vacation during the week. He told reporters Thursday he did not know Congress was considering cut-and-kill termination of the program, and that his contacts at the program's headquarters indicated prospects for saving ASRM are "pretty bleak."

The program currently employs almost 200 people at Stennis.

Cochran, however, doesn't share the view of ASRM officials about the program's future.

"We were encouraged today, particularly in view of the last couple of days that have put this project in jeopardy. The unexpected amendment offered in the House of Representatives dealt a very serious setback to the project, but the program is now back on track. We can continue to negotiate with the Administration and with the House to get the funding problem solved."

Laura, also a veteran junior player, shot a 76 and an 80 to qualify for the championship flight before being defeated by Jessica Wood of North Carolina. Playing Wood was no small feat in itself, since Laura's handicap was 6.1 and Wood's was 4.9. In addition, Wood was a three-year member of the University of North Carolina's golf team.
